TAFT TO MAKE NON-POLITICAL TOUR OF WEST

Dopesters Believe, However, He Will Test Chances for '48 Nomination.

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, July 22—Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R) of Ohio a ... but undeclared candidate for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, will make what a spokesman described today as a ... political" speaking tour of the west this fall.

He will appear in California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Utah and Arizona.

Some political observers believe, despite the non-political explanation, that the tour is designed to give Taft a chance to demonstrate what his presidential ... is.

"Anti-Dewey Move"

They also viewed it as a move to thwart the current "non-political" western swing of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, ... undeclared candidate for the 1948 G.O.P. nomination. Taft's spokesman denied, however, that ... was the purpose of the tour.

He said Taft's speaking engagements were arranged long before it was known that Dewey would make his trip.

Before launching his tour, Taft will be honor guest July 31 at a dinner at Columbus given by the ... Republican state committee and the Ohio G.O.P. congressional delegation. There has been speculation that at the dinner, Senator John W. Bricker, (R) of Ohio the 1944 G.O.P. vice presidential nominee, will drop out of the running giving Taft a clear field as Ohio's "favorite son" candidate.

The spokesman denied reports Taft might announce his candidacy at the dinner.

Taft will vacation at the family summer home in Murray Bay, Quebec, before he opens his speaking tour at Santa Cruz, Cal., Sept. ... with an address before the California Bar association. Four days later he will speak before the Commonwealth club in San Francisco.

Afterwards, he will speak in Oregon, Washington, Montana, Utah and Arizona. No dates have been set for those appearances.

DEWEY LOOKS AT WYOMING SCENERY

By International News Service

ENROUTE WITH GOV. DEWEY TO JENNY LAKE, Wyo., July 22—New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey sidetracked politics entirely today to travel with his family through the rugged beauty of the Jackson Hole country in Wyoming.

He left Cody, Wyo., this morning by automobile and was to spend tonight at the Jenny Lake ranch, near the base of the gigantic Tenton mountain range.

During his nearly 24-hour stay in Cody, Dewey was told by U. S. Sen. Edward V. Robertson that sentiment is growing in Wyoming for Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio.

OIL-FED FIRE HITS NORTH DAKOTA CITY

By The United Press

MINOT, N. D., July 22—Residents of neighborhoods near Minot's factory district returned to their homes today after a day of terror in which flames fed by gasoline and oil swept through four blocks of the industrial section and killed four men.

The fire started with a series of explosions which destroyed three ... gasoline and oil storage tanks of the Westland and Texaco ... company plants.

Many persons living on the ... of the industrial area moved their possessions from their homes as the flames approached. Firemen were driven back repeatedly by the intense heat in their efforts to fight the fire.

It was under control today but authorities isolated the district and assigned watchers to sound the alarm if the flames started up again.

"We're praying that the wind doesn't come up, particularly from the south," Fire Chief Gilbert Malek said. "If it does heaven help us."

Malek said he would attempt to determine the total property loss today. It was expected to reach more than $1,000,000.

Treasury Prepares For Cashing of Bonds

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 22—The treasury—in order to be ready when and if President Truman signs the bill permitting veterans to cash their terminal leave bonds—is drafting regulations to let banks do the job.

Under the plan the nation's 15,000 banks would cash the bonds in the same manner as they handle government savings bonds. The measure to permit cashing of more than $1,800,000,000 terminal leave bonds after Sept. 1 cleared congress Saturday night.

In event the legislation is approved, the treasury plans to send the banks tables showing at a glance the amount of interest due. The bonds carry 2½ per cent interest.

Originally the bonds were not to be cashable until five years from the date of a veteran's discharge. But they could be applied as payments on veterans' government life insurance premiums or cashed immediately by survivors when a veteran died.

Treasury officials said today that, under these provisos, over $57,178,000 worth already have been cashed.

Near-Record Lows Marked Up As Cool Weather Spreads

By The Associated Press

Unseasonably cool weather spread over a section of the midwest and into parts of the southwest today, with temperatures hitting near record lows for the date in some communities.

The U. S. weather bureau in Chicago said temperatures this morning from Minnesota eastward to Indiana and south into Missouri and Arkansas ranged from 40 to 50 above. The mass of cool air from Canada modified as it moved southwestward but at Harrison, Ark., the mercury dropped to 49 and it registered 50 at Advance, Mo. La Crosse, Wis., reported a low of 41.

Chicago's early morning reading of 49.4 equalled the all-time low for July and followed a day when the mercury failed to rise above 68.2 degrees on a July 21 for the first time in 51 years.

Although some of the cool air hit the northern part of Texas, continued warm weather was forecast from Texas westward to California after temperatures yesterday of from 90 to 100.

Rain has fallen over the northeastern states and scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported over the southeastern states, the Rocky Mountain region and the southern plains states.

Ohio Weather Sets Some New Records

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 22 — The cold weather holding Ohio temperatures 10 degrees below normals may be setting individual date records but not new lows for July, the U. S. weather bureau reported today.

Lows last night of 46 degrees at Wilmington, 48 at Lima, and 49 at Dayton, Jackson and Springfield are not the lowest July temperatures on record for those points, but the 53 last night at Columbus was the lowest on record. In 1890 the mercury dropped to 55 on July 22.

The Ohio forecast predicted temperatures four to six degrees lower than the average for tonight, but the Columbus area forecast was for a 48 low, which would establish a new July record. The lowest July temperature recorded at Columbus was a 49 on July 15, 1930.

Cool weather is expected to remain over the state until Thursday with gradual warming weather and some rainfall by Saturday.

Normal minimum for July range from 62 to 65 degrees with the average maximum for the month 85. Maximum temperatures for the past few days have been from 70 to 75.

OHIO COLLEGE DENIES REDISM

"Ridiculous," Says Antioch of Charges 2 Professors Are Communists.

By The Associated Press

YELLOW SPRINGS, O., July 22—Testimony before the house committee on un-American activities linking the names of two Antioch college professors with communism was termed "ridiculous" today in a statement by Mrs. Jessie Treichler, assistant to the president of Antioch college.

Mrs. Treichler, who issued the statement in the absence of President Algo Henderson and Vice President W. B. Alexander, declared, "again reputations are being smeared by these propagandistic labels."

In Washington yesterday, Walter A. Steele, chairman of the national security committee of the American Coalition of Patriotic, Civic and Fraternal societies, mentioned Prof. Arthur S. Steinberg and Prof. Lewis Corey of Antioch college in his testimony attacking communism.

Steele told the committee that Steinberg, under the name of Berger, was listed among 140 persons connected with the Canadian spy ring in a document in the possession of the American government.

"Not Real Nazi"

Steele said he had information that Corey's real name is Lewis Corey Fraini and that he is a charter member of the Communist party.

Mrs. Treichler described Prof. Corey, associate professor of political economy, "as a noted economist and author and a severe opponent of the Communist party as his writings of many years show."

Dr. Steinberg," she said, "categorically denies any connection 'remote, direct or indirect with the Communist party.' He is an outstanding geneticist who joined the Fels Research institute staff as a geneticist in 1946 after two years in the U. S. navy. We have learned to respect him as a teacher, worker and human being."

"We judge men at Antioch," Mrs. Treichler said, "by their effectiveness as workers and their decency as human beings. We don't believe Communists would be happy in this community. As Vice President Alexander stated this spring 'Antioch college will not hire or retain a professor who is a Communist, for Communist party members and their affiliates place means above end and their party before country'."

"No Comment"

Prof. Steinberg said he would make no comment on Steele's assertions until he had read the testimony of the congressional hearing.

In a telephone interview, Prof. Corey said he was "considered as

DUTCH BRANCH OUT IN FIGHT WITH REPUBLIC

Indonesian War Spreads to Sumatra; Java Operations Grow.

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, Java, July 22—Dutch amphibious landings in east Java and the first actions on Sumatra were reported today in the growing conflict between forces of the Netherlands and the Indonesian republic.

The fight, which began Sunday with the Dutch acting first, originated in disagreements over the future government of the East Indies, rich in oil, rubber, sugar, tin and other products. The Republicans call it a "colonial war," the Dutch "local police action."

Dutch troops, mainly United States-trained Marines, were said to have captured four east-Java coastal points after going ashore from naval vessels in a large-scale operation yesterday. They were reported to have established bridgeheads along a 55-mile coastal road between two of those points—Probolinggo and Sitoebondo.

3-Pronged Action

First reports from Sumatra said Dutch troops jumped off in local actions yesterday at three towns on that big island northwest of Java—Medan in the north, Palembang in the southeast and Padang in the middle—and had completed the Padang operation without casualties.

On Java itself, most populous island of the East Indies, news bulletins and communiques from both sides indicated that at least seven Dutch operations were under way in what observers interpreted as an attempt to pinch off the Republic into isolated segments for a final cleanup.

These operations were: in western Java, drives south from Buitenzorg, east from Bandoeng and west from Bandoeng; in central Java, a movement south from Semarang, and in eastern Java, a push south from Soerabaia, a movement inland from Probolinggo and a stand at Banjoewangi—this last to prevent any Republican flight eastward to the island of Bali.

"All Objectives Reached"

A Dutch army communique this afternoon, while witholding geographical details, said that "all objectives for the first 24 hours were reached and at many points our troops even advanced much further." The communique reported resistance less than expected. It listed Dutch casualties yesterday as 150 dead and wounded.

It said the population "remains

Liquor Probe Ordered By Gov. Herbert

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 22—Gov Thomas J. Herbert today directed Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins to conduct a sweeping investigation into the overstocking of the state liquor warehouses with slow-moving types of spirits.

Jenkins, whose investigation caused revocation of scores of private club liquor licenses issued in the closing days of the administration of former Gov Frank J. Lausche, said he would hire two investigators for the new probe, which is expected to get under way Monday.

The governor in announcing the investigation said:

"We've asked him (Jenkins) to join with us in investigating some of these sales items that contributed to making this inventory swell up so suddenly.

"As our investigation develops our action will be indicated accordingly."

Railway Strike Lasts Six Hours

Engineers for Southern Pacific Settle After Short Walkout.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22—A strike by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers which immobilized the western lines of the Southern Pacific railroad ended early today six hours and 45 minutes after it began.

Thirty-nine minutes later the first of hundreds of locomotives idled by the brief strike puffed back into service.

L. B. McDonald, Southern Pacific vice president in charge of operations, announced at 12:45 a. m., (P.S.T.), that an agreement with the union was reached in negotiations which had continued in session after the walkout began yesterday at 6 p. m.

Shortly afterward P. O. Peterson, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotives Engineers, announced "an agreement has been signed and the strike indefinitely postponed while the remaining issues are settled by direct negotiations with the railroad."

Peterson said 15 of 20 points at issue, mainly affecting working rules, were settled satisfactorily for the union and that a demand for a guaranteed minimum wage increase from $10.02 to $12.95 was waived.

"I think the employes got the best of the bargain," he said.

Gases from Volcano Put City To Flight

By The United Press

MANAGU, NICARAGUA, July 22—Toxic gases pouring from the Cerro Negro volcano left many persons dead today and forced most of the 70,000 inhabitants of Leon City to flee.

"Only a miracle can save Leon from destruction," said one official.

Six-year-old Roger Gue of Navarre, O., shown above with his mother at their home, told authorities at Massillon that he dropped two infant girls on the floor of the Massillon hospital while "playing nurse" with them causing their deaths. Charge To Be Filed In Crestline Shooting

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, July 22 — A charge of shooting with intent to kill was to be filed today against Alva Conn, 23, of Crestline, who has admitted the shooting of Richard Rowley, naval combat veteran. Rowley whose condition was given as "poor" this morning at Mansfield General hospital was entering the Conn residence early Sunday morning when Conn shot him with a revolver. Con told Crestline police he mistook Rowley for Lawrence Maddy with whom he had been quarreling earlier.

Conn suffered a chest wound from the revolver shot. He was taken to Emergency hospital in Crestline and later Sunday was removed to the Mansfield hospital.

Pennsylvania Woman Kills 71-Year-Old Mother

By The Associated Press

READING, Pa., July 22—A 47-year-old woman has admitted she gave her invalid 71-year-old mother a fatal dose of sleeping tablets, "so she wouldn't suffer anymore" but insists she's not dead, "she's just resting," says assistant District Attorney C. Wilson Austin.

Austin reported Ella M. Haug made the admission from a hospital bed last night. She is in Community General hospital recovering from an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Austin said the woman—found semi-conscious beside the body of her mother, Mrs. Katie Latshaw, yesterday—gave her mother 12 tablets "after supper on Sunday night."

"When she became cold, I took my 12 tablets because I knew she was resting," Austin quoted Miss Haug.

"Do you know your mother is dead?" Austin said he asked the woman.

"Don't use that word — she's just resting," Miss Haug replied.

"From present indications," Austin said, "a charge of murder will be placed against Miss Haug."

ONG To Honor Ten Who Survived Bataan

By The Associated Press

CAMP PERRY, O., July 22—Headquarters of the 37th Division, Ohio National Guard, today mapped tentative plans to honor the 10 surviving members of the 37th Tank Co. at a parade and review here July 31.

The 37th Tank Co., recruited largely from the neighboring Port Clinton area, was captured on Bataan.

The division settled down to drills and training after receiving compliments on the efficiency with which it moved into camp for its two-week stay.

Ohio's adjutant general, Chester W. Gobble, said he was pleased with the "initial shakedown," and a regular army representative Col. R. M. Gregory, professor of military science at Akron university and field instructor of the general staff, complimented Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber on the "business-like manner" in which his officers and men completed their arrival.

GOES BACK TO FIRST STORY

Child, 6, Now Telling Original Tale of "Man in White," Mother Says.

By The Associated Press

MASSILLON, O., July 22—Mrs. Roger Gue of Navarre, mother of the six-year-old boy reported by Police Chief Stanley W. Switter to have admitted the accidental killing of two babies in City hospital last month, said today her son again had changed his story and that she did not now believe her son dropped the infants.

Mrs. Gue said the boy reverted last night in questioning by his parents to his original story, told authorities earlier this month, of seeing a big boy in a white coat enter the nursery.

"If Roger continues to stick to his original story of seeing the boy in the white coat enter the nursery, we plan to call Prosecutor D. D. McLaughlin to inform him of the child's change of mind."

She added she did not believe the boy's story, released by the Massillon police chief yesterday, of dropping the babies accidentally while playing nurse.

Unaware of Role

Mrs. Gue said she and her husband were unaware that "the men we admitted to our home Sunday afternoon to question Roger were investigators of any kind."

Then she added:

"We know nothing of the gift promised the boy if he admitted playing with the babies and dropping them."

Investigating authorities earlier were disagreed on how the two infants met their deaths at City hospital despite the widely publicized story released by Chief Switter yesterday.

To Police Chief Stanley W. Switter, the 47-day-old mystery was solved after little Roger Gue told him yesterday he was playing with the infants in a ward and accidentally let them fall.

Roger was a patient at the hospital at the time with a broken right arm encased in a cast.

Asked by a reporter if he thought the statement ended the case, Switter replied: "Why certainly."

Prosecutor Doubtful

But Stark County Prosecutor D. Dean McLaughlin declared: "Our investigation continues. The confession reported by two newspaper reporters does not close the case for us.

"I talked with Mr. and Mrs. (Roger) Gue in their Navarre (O.) home. Both expressed doubt that Roger was telling the truth." (Earlier in the day Chief Switter said the child's parents were reasonably convinced the story was accurate.)

The babies—Diana Jean Brand, eight weeks, and Rosemary Morton, 10 weeks—were found dying in their cribs of fractured skulls June 6. Almost from the start, Chief Switter has believed their deaths accidental and McLaughlin has stuck to a theory of murder.

In young Gue's statement, he admitted playing with the babies and said there was no one in the room at the time.

Quizzed by James S. Ellis, free lance correspondent and private investigator from Pittsburgh, the boy said:

"I was in there (the ward), playing with the babies, and I dropped them on the floor. I climbed up on the cribs and tried to get them."

Boy's Testimony

Questions and answers then went like this:

Q—Did you put the babies on the floor?

A—Yes.

Q—Did you play with them?

A—Yes.

Q—Then what did you do?

A—I put them back in bed.

Later, the statement said, young Gue went back into the room with other children, and a nurse washed his hands. He said he didn't know who the nurse was.

Roger's mother also was quoted in the statement as saying:

"Well, we knew right along that Roger wasn't telling the truth. We felt that if we could be alone with him, and get the fear out of him, we could get the truth out of him.

"I honestly believe now that he has no realization that the children have died. He thinks they are all right."

Besides investigator Ellis, others listening to the boy's statement were Willard Schaurer, reporter

The total budget for flood control and navigation construction approved by the subcommittee totals $343,000,000. Increases voted by the subcommittee amount to $208,566,000 over house-approved figures.

SENATE MAY ASK HELP IN VOTE FRAUD

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 22—With the senate stalled on demands for a congressional investigation into Attorney General Clark's handling of Kansas City vote fraud charges, prospects mounted today that Republican leaders might turn to the house for help.

Senator Kem (R-Mo) said he still has not given up hope that the senate will approve his resolution authorizing an inquiry.

But with time running out on the Saturday adjournment goal Democratic senators showed no inclination to let the matter come to an early vote.

Meanwhile, a highly-placed house Republican said a number of representatives have been pressing for an inquiry by their chamber. He said the matter might be brought before the house administration committee today.

Kem told newsmen, however that he has not yet asked Missouri representatives to seek action at the other end of the capitol.

"They have asked me to let them know when I think it is hopeless in the senate," Kem said declining to predict whether or how soon that might come.

Two Marion 3-Year-Olds Bathe in Puddle, Discard Clothes, Then Go on Two-Mile Hike

An enjoyable excursion into the country was cut short for two members of Marion's younger set yesterday when three-and-one-half-year-old Sandra Payette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Payetta of 272 Summit street, and Neil Laubner, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Laubner Jr. of Hane avenue, when Patrolman A. V. Smith of the state highway patrol found them, sans clothing, wandering on route 95 near the county home two miles east of Marion.

The pair, constant playmates, had been together in the back yard of the Payette home all morning, and apparently wandered down Summitt street to Mount Vernon avenue, traveling east to the corporation limit. With the fascination for water which seems a part of every child's life, they stopped to enjoy the pleasure of bathing in a mud puddle at a filling station near the intersection of Route 95 with the Richland pike. Finding their clothes damp after the aquatic adventure, the children disposed of them and continued with their exploration.

Everything went fine until Mrs. E. H. Gilmore, who lives east of the Mausoleum on route 95, called Marion police. Police in turn called the state highway patrol. Patrolman Smith headed for the scene, and soon the two youngsters were returned to their distracted parents.

"They were wandering along the road apparently looking for another puddle to play in," Patrolman Smith said. Neil was tastefully attired in an undershirt while his companion chose a large smile for her costume. Patrolman Smith, feeling this would not be the proper way in which to return the children, stopped by the puddle where the adventure began and retrieved the dampened clothes. Neither of the children was anxious to return home, and enjoyed the ride in from the country.

Missing for Lunch

Mrs. Payette was first to discover the children were missing from the back yard when she went to call Sandra to lunch. When the patrol car with its young passengers bove into sight, elated at their safe return, Mrs. Payette forgot to use the stick she was carrying.

Neither Sandra nor Neil was available this morning for comments on their journey.

"Buttoned Lip" Is Still Badge Of City Making Bomb Material

By JAMES HUTCHESON
Associated Press Writer

RICHLAND, Wash., July 22—As this atom-born community approaches the second anniversary of two history-making explosions which blew away the "secret" of its existence, it is preparing for its first postwar expansion project with a tight-lipped security policy still its gagging code.

The announcement this month of the expansion program said all new construction and plant workers would undergo the usual close scrutiny for security purposes.

A sign posted prominently in the town's recreation hall sounds the "atom city" keynote:

"Espionage is always a threat. Don't talk about your work off the job."

Officials said there has been no change in security restrictions since the congressional flurry over removal and recovery of files from the Los Alamos, N. M., atomic project, and that there have been no breaches of security here).

Reinvestigation Begins

Since the atomic energy commission took over administration of the atom program, every one of the 5,600 employes in the General Electric-administered Hanford Engineering Works is being re-investigated. All new employes have to face a thorough investigation as to their loyalty and past activities.

A spokesman for General Electric, which took over the operation of the vast Hanford project from DuPont last year, said the re-investigation of all employes was launched under an atomic energy commission order of last April 16.

In addition to the A.E.C. check-up, every employe must meet General Electric personnel standards on qualifications for atomic project work and personal associations to the atomic community.

Project officials are proud of the Hanford works safety record, but even in that sparse town an element of "restricted information."

No Worker "Burned"

In the making of plutonium, the radioactive element which is the key to the release of atomic energy, not a single person ever has been listed as a victim of the highly dangerous radioactivity. A series of vast industrial plants, potentially the most dangerous in the world, have compiled the nation's best industrial safety record.

Compared with the national industrial average of 12.6 casualties per million man hours of labor, safety director V. R. Hoover cites a 1945 average in the Hanford works of .077 and a 1946 rating of .034.

"In 1946 we went 295 days without an injury," Hoover said. "Then the record was spoiled because a workman let a blister get infected after pinching his finger with a screw driver. He lost a day."

The only fatality ever charged against the operation of the atomic project was a man's death when he fell from a truck in a collision.

Safety Still Question

The curtain of secrecy drops again on the question of how such a safety record can be established where such deadly stuff is being manufactured in seven sprawling plants, each eight miles apart over a 630-square mile area.

Most workmen don't get near the dangerous product, and Geiger counters keep a constant check on radioactivity in work areas. An information official explains that protective clothing is worn by persons in work which might lead them to dangerous exposure, and built-in precautionary devices assure that a workman with more curiosity than good sense can't go wandering into trouble.

"But what kind of protective equipment is used is in the restricted category," said a G. E. public relations official.

Even overnight visitors aren't taken for granted. At the transient quarters (the closest thing to a hotel in the town of 16,000), the clerk asks politely to "please sign who you are here to see at the bottom."

Don't Know Anything

Actually, project employes say, an espionage agent could pump most of them for all they know and still wouldn't learn much about producing plutonium. They just don't know.

The production areas are a closed preserve. The potentially hazardous plants are separated in the desolate country along the Columbia river, which supplies the large amount of electricity needed and the large flow of water needed for cooling.

The nearest production plant is 25 miles from this residential and headquarters center, the farthest 40. Employes say an individual worker doesn't get much of an idea of what is going on.

One young doctor of the project hospital staff said, "I remember the day the bomb was announced and the Hanford project was identified with it. I was on a vacation trip to Oregon. When I asked the agent for a ticket to Richland, he said he never had heard of such a place and didn't have any ticket to it.

Wants Information

"I pointed to the newspaper near him, with the atom bomb headline, and told him that was it. He wanted me to come into his office and tell him all about it. I'm not known much more about it than he did, and like the workers in the plant, hadn't known what the Hanford project was working on until I read it in the papers."

It was no wonder that the ticket agent hadn't heard of Richland, which had been a little crossroads settlement of 250. A project public relations officer, W. R. Cydell, had spent virtually his full time in making sure that no news was published or broadcast about the project.

A boom construction camp of 51,000 population blossomed where only a few hundred persons had eked out an isolated existence. There were more than 3,000 trailer homes alone. Thousands of buses were needed for transporting workers.

There were gigantic problems of obtaining such scarce supplies as sugar and milk for the boom town in the wastelands. Horace Andrews, now a Walla Walla businessman but who was then in the service section for the project, relates how it was necessary to get direct order from President Roosevelt for the necessary sugar for a boom city that was almost unknown to rationing officials.

When construction was completed, the boom construction camp dissolved almost as swiftly as it had risen. Many of the munitions-wise workers who saw the heavy walls being built figured they didn't care about being around when production of the mystery product started.

A total of only about 6,000 was needed to operate the project. Richland was built as project headquarters and as the residential community. It is a government-owned, company-operated town, and the "buttoned lip" is also its badge.

Ash and the Rev. F. W. Obee whose wife died a few years ago. He had solemnized their marriages in the early 1900s—but not to each other. In 1905 Mr. Williams officiated at the wedding of Rev. Obee and Miss Carrie Ellen White. In 1911, he solemnized the marriage of Edna Britton and J. D. Ash, formerly of Eugene, Ore. Rev. Obee who retired from the ministry of the Methodist church four years ago, makes his home in Richwood where the couple plan to reside. Rev. Obee has by his former marriage a son, Harold, of Bowling Green state university. Mrs. Obee has one son, Britton Ash of Eugene, Ore.

STEEL ACCUSED OF PLANNING SHORTAGES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 22—Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, contended Monday the program of steel corporations is one of "planned scarcity calculated to enhance profits and to fortify their monopoly hold over this basic industry."

Declaring that the industry is engaging in "big business featherbedding" Reuther said if it "cannot or will not equip itself to produce the steel required for full employment, then the government must be prepared to see that the steel is produced."

In a statement prepared for the senate's small business subcommittee which is investigating the capacity of the industry in relation to probable future demands, the union leader said:

"We shall need 100,000,000 tons of steel for full employment in the United States in 1950. Witnesses from the steel corporations assert that 80,000,000 tons will be enough for the next five or 10 years.

"If (their) plan is carried out it will mean 14,000,000 workers unemployed by 1950. It will mean that 2,000,000 of the 7,000,000 motor vehicles we probably shall want to buy in that year cannot be produced. It will mean that some 200,000 auto workers will be thrown out of their jobs."

The filament of a 60-watt electric bulb runs a temperature of 4,314 degrees Fahrenheit — ten times the heat necessary to brown a pie.

"No War in This Generation," Says Britain's Ernest Bevin

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Ernest Bevin, Britain's ever daring foreign secretary, took his reputation as a prophet in his hands at the weekend and told a coal miners' picnic in northern England that there is no danger of another war in this generation so far as he can see.

And why should this statesman, whose voice carries around the world, raise the harrowing subject of conflict on the supposedly cheerful occasion of a picnic? Well, because it's a question which never is far from the minds of all thinking people, as you and I well know from the conversations we daily encounter. So Mr. Bevin make his prediction to calm fears, but he was quick to add this important qualification:

Dewitt Mackenzie

"But in every act you perform, you must keep in mind the children of 30 or 40 years from now. Not a day passes, not a moment passes in the job in which I am now engaged without my being fully conscious that a wrong decision, wrong judgment or petulant answer may now condemn a generation."

Can't Afford Mistakes

Wise counsel that, for nobody can afford mistakes in these dangerous days. However, that doesn't mean that we are to refuse to face facts, to apply ourselves energetically to laying plans to meet emergencies, and to put those plans into operation forcefully when the emergencies crop up.

It would have been interesting if Mr. Bevin had amplified his forecast. Had he done so I dare say it might have developed several "if's."

We shall have war if and when some aggressor nation acquires sufficient strength to wage a major conflict and so dares to carry out its aggression in the face of any and all hostile opinion. It strikes me that it might not take a generation for such a hypothetical situation to be created.

Still, we do know that the only nation now physically capable of waging a major war of conquest is the United States — and the U.S.A. isn't an aggressor.

Communism Is Danger

The present danger of war of course lies in the continued expansion of aggressive communism. The world revolution for the spread of that ism is going full ult, and it will keep going with increasing intensity until it strikes an obstacle which it can't move. Every new country which is absorbed in the Red campaign adds strength to Russia's powerful communistic empire—and all this is gained without a major shooting-war.

So far as Moscow is concerned, it can avoid war by sitting aloff and being in a position to wash its hands of any act performed by one or more of its satellites. Take the case of Greece, for example. That unfortunate little country—already crippled by World War—is fighting a life and death battle with Communist forces which it asserts are backed by its Red neighbors to the north—a claim supported by the majority finding of the United Nations investigating commission in the Balkans. Yet Russia ostensibly isn't directly involved, and doesn't intend to become involved, because she doesn't want a war for which she isn't prepared.

America and the other democracies don't want war either, and so must move circumspectly. Still they have vowed to protect weak countries from being communized against their wills by such strong-arm methods as have been employed against Hungary, Romania and Poland, among others, and now are being used against Greece.

The only way this can be achieved without precipitation war is to provide the little fellows with the wherewithal to protect themselves against the Red satellites. That is the significance of the action of the U. S. state and war departments Saturday in urging the senate to move quickly in approving funds to aid Greece and Turkey and start the world towards reconstruction.

Ohio Restaurant Men Assail Wage Boardmen

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 22—The Ohio State Restaurant association today asked W. J. Rogers, director of the department of industrial relations, to consider dissolution of the new minimum wage board "or take adequate steps to secure representatives in accordance with provisions of the prescribed law."

The nine-member board scheduled a meeting today for a discussion of the hotel and restaurant industries.

Robert R. Williams, executive vice-president of the association, sent a letter to Rogers, with a copy to Gov. Thomas J. Herbert objecting particularly to the three "public representatives" named on the board—Miss Alma Herbst, Miss Helen Phelan and Miss Annie Lockett. Williams contended their interest in the labor movement disqualified them as public representatives.

Williams also objected to the three representatives chosen to represent labor—Lawrence Steinberg, Jack Breidenbaugh and Joseph Traylor—on the ground they were not representative of the females and minors working in restaurants in Ohio.

One of Five Cars in Ohio Has Defect, Patrol Says

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 22—First reports of the 1947 state highway patrol traffic safety check show that one car of every five on Ohio highways has a defect in its lights, brakes or horn.

Warning tickets have been issued for 19,123 of the 108,622 vehicles checked by the state patrol and police of Ohio cities in the statewide survey, Lt. M. A. Mock reported.

Lt. Mock, who is coordinating officer for the safety program, said, "burned out bulbs in a light or tail-light cause most trouble, with brakes next and faulty horns third."

BLUFFTON FARMER DIES OF ACCIDENT INJURIES

Succumbs to Wounds Suffered When Pinned Under Wagon.

By International News Service

FINDLAY, July 22 — Injuries suffered when he was crushed under a wagon on route 696 one mile north of Beaverdam caused the death today of Eli Augsburger, 72-year-old prominent retired farmer of Bluffton.

Highway patrolmen said Augsburger had a four-wheel wagon attached to the rear of his automobile when a coupling broke, sending the wagon into a ditch.

Augsburger's sons, Paul and Alvin, were helping get the wagon back on the road when an automobile driven by 16-year-old Gerald Weaver of near Lima hit the wagon and hurled the elder Augsburger into its path.

Weaver was exonerated by authorities on his claim that he did not see the wagon.

Augsburger, who is survived by 11 children, formerly was president of the Richland Township (Allen county) Insurance company.

Night Club Hostess Held in Illinois Slaying

By The United Press

URBANA, Ill., July 22—A former night club hostess will be arraigned on murder charges Saturday along with the taxicab driver who is accused of helping her rob and kill a tavern owner.

Betty Gruver, 20-year-old blond who confessed slaying A. G. Tilton, 40, and Robert Lewis, 22, the hack driver, were indicted yesterday by a Champaign county grand jury.

Lewis claimed Miss Gruver had forced him at gunpoint to accompany her in the robbery attempt. States Attorney John Bressee charged he was an accessory.

A coroner's jury recommended a grand jury investigation of gambling in the county after hearing testimony that coupled Tilton's death with the activities of an alleged gambling syndicate.

How Much Wiser Are We?

READERS who don't know why President Truman made news this week with a mid-year economic report may find reason more interesting than the report.

Economic planners left over from the New Deal were itching to get their hands on government controls a year ago. But they were sidetracked by the employment act of 1946, a slick job of stealing their clothes while they were in swimming; it sounded like what they wanted but was really a scheme to keep them at arm's length.

The law provided for a "council of economic advisers" to tell the chief executive what time it was, economically. The council's first report was made last January. This week's report is No. 2 in what will be a long series on the economic state of the union.

It says what anyone with enough sense to deflate a dollar knows—that business is going like a house afire (the national income is piling up at the rate of 225 billions a year, compared with less than 50 billion in 1934) but that there may be the devil to pay if the house that's afire ever burns down. The moral is you have to take it easy and, instead if going whole-hog, try to make the postwar boom last.

The economic advisers who say this have no special ax to grind. They cannot be accused of ulterior motives. The idea behind their job is that the United States is too important to rely on luck to keep itself from going to economic pot. At the conclusion of the report appears this paragraph, which suggests what's at stake:

"We must adjust our minds to the fact that we are living in a 225-billion-dollar economy; that our free system has become today, and tomorrow must continue to be, the richest and most powerful productive machine ever devised by the minds and hands of men. Our task is to create for the functioning of this great productive force an environment in which it can operate smoothly at capacity. Thus far we have avoided the economic misfortunes which followed World War I and then culminated in a disastrous depression in 1929. Today we are wiser, more experienced, infinitely more blessed with material riches, more united as a people, strong as a nation."

The question is how much wiser are we. Enough to keep a 225-billion-dollar economy from being ruined because everybody and his brother are trying to milk it for a little more than a fair share? The President's economic advisers don't know. The only people who can give an answer are those closest to the cow—the ones being advised to show a little restraint.

Two Rowels, One Burr

TO EMBARRASS southern Democrats, the Republicans have pulled the poll tax bill out of the hat again, the same hat that holds the anti-lynch bill. Rebuffed on tax deduction, the Republicans now resurrect the poll tax issue to make southern Democrats put on the record statements which the party's so-called liberals find galling.

There's little chance of the bill getting past the senate, where a filibuster awaits it, but it's a rowel on the spur that makes the Democratic donkey jump. The rowel on the other spur is the anti-lynch bill and the burr under the saddle is the Missouri vote fraud investigation.

Some day the anti-lynch and poll tax measures will be law and the Missouri mess will be cleaned up. Republicans will have to search long and diligently for three equally durable items to replace them.

A World and A Half

EVERYBODY who shared Wendell Willkie's dream of one world is disappointed. But why?

It's plain by hindsight that unity among nations and brotherhood among men is closer than it was when Willkie was talking about one world, because there never could have been one world anyway while the issue if the supreme state vs. the dignity of individual man was unsettled.

Americans could imagine themselves being tolerant of Russian dictatorship, even being tolerant of the dictatorship's agents trying to overthrow the government of the United States. But the Communist party leaders of Russia never imagined themselves practicing a doctrine of live and let live. The exclusion of all rights other than those of the dictating class is fundimental in communism. All that has happened is that events have shown what is impossible and what is possible. The Stalin government has abandoned its last pretenses of cooperation and retreated without apology into isolation, taking with it as captive a retinue of puppet states that have no power of self-determination. There is not going to be one world, but neither is there going to be any further deception on that score.

There is going to be a world and a half, if that's the way Russian government wants it to be. There is going to be a world trying to help men increase their dignity and stature, and there is going to be a dissident fraction determined that all men's wills must be bent to the will of a master calling himself the state.

News Behind the News

G.O.P. Fails To Make Defense Cuts Stick.

WASHINGTON, July 22—The Republicans could not make their cuts stick on defense appropriations. What the house cut the senate restored. In the end the Army got slightly more money than the truman budget provided; the navy only one twenty-fifth less.

The paring knife of the Republicans would have been more effective except for one factor. The senate Republicans decided at the last minute to give the Army air corps nearly $500,000,000 for contract authorizations, mostly to purchase new planes. This was what the air corps wanted but the budget had denied them the amount.

The air corps restorations will allow 55 air groups and 15 more skeleton groups. Airminded Republican Senator Lodge wanted to provide 70 groups, but the majority apparently thought the restorations would revive the dismally lagging airplane manufacturing industry, and at the same time, answer the call for adequate air protection which has arisen from the unsettled Russian situation.

Both houses agreed on providing $222 million for army research and development and $145 million for the same thing in the air corps alone. Although this sum is somewhat under last year, it is supposed to furnish adequate continuous exploration into the new type of airmissile warfare and defense (atomic defense?).

So together, the Army and Navy bills provide nearly $10,000,000,000 for national defense, more than one-third of the whole cost of government (the Army roughly $6.1 billion which is $60 million over the budget, and the Navy $3.5 billion which is about $150 million under).

You would think such an air defense-minded congress would be militantly aroused over the shipment of American oil to Russia, but a speech by Democratic Senator Lucas put the administration damper down on that subject. The Lucas side of the story is that the loading of nine tankers on the Pacific coast for Vladivostok came just at this time when the nation was discussing gas rationing to meet our own shortages, because of a peculiar set of circumstances. Vladivostok is closed by ice in winter. The administration had dropped oil from the export control list back in February, and thereupon private American oil companies made contracts to sell oil to the Russians. Deliveries were delayed by the icy condition of Vladivostok, so 9 tankers were loaded and dispatched in June, although only 730,000 barrels of oil went to the Russians in the first six months of the year.

Lucas claimed the newspapers just heard about the 9 tankers and became excited at the prospects that we would repeat our mistake with Japan by shipping oil to enable an antagonistic nation to build reserves which could be used against us. Yet Lucas said shipments ran at the rate of only 1½ million barrels a year the first six months, whereas we shipped 2½ million barrels to Russia in 1945 (lend lease).

Explanation Still Lacking

The Lucas explanation may excuse everyone for his part in the matter, but it does not excuse or explain the matter. Russia has one main source of supply for oil, the Baku-Caucusus-Rumanian area. For her to ship from there to Vladivostok would cost her more probably than to buy on our west coast. At least it would take longer for her to get her Black Sea oil to her Pacific port than to get it at Los Angeles. Oil these days, however, is a main war potential. The gasoline motor is the overall weapon of war. It cannot be operated aloft, on the ground, or in the sea without fuel.

An embargo on oil might be the most effective way possible to maintain peace. Certainly the diplomatic situation is not today what it was under lend-lease.

From any objective realistic standpoint it appears to me the newspapers were entirely right in their excitement, and a more thorough, coonclusive excuse for shipment of oil abroad is necessary for continuance of the practice indiscriminately.

Crime May Not Pay But Boston Does

The Boston city attorney has ruled that Mayor Curley can continue to collect his salary while in jail.

His Honor, it will be remembered, is serving from six to eighteen months for mailfraud, a federal offense which unfortunately wasn't covered by his mayoral immunity.

Incidentally, while elective officials have wound up in jail before, I still haven't been able to find any others whose terms have run concurrently.

Mayor Curley has a right to feel jubilant over the salary ruling. He'll get $20,000 a year, which is a lot of money—especially with no more overhead than he's got.

Boston's favorite penned-up boy is a vote getter of the old-fashioned, or non-musical, school. This is a shame in a way. Otherwise, he'd be a sensation in the penitentiary glee club, singing something appropriate like: "No, No, They Can't Take That Away From Me."

Meanwhile, there's a sort of poetic justice about the whole thing: Boston paying Curley while Curley is paying society.

Memos from Washington

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, July 22—The congressional session is closing with bad auguries for the future. All Secretary Marshall's immense prestige had to be employed, like a majestic trip hammer, to drive into the head of Representative John Taber the urgency of Greece's need for aid. Representative Clarence Brown and others of the extreme right have simultaneously unveiled a sordid little scheme to mix tax politics and foreign policy. And Secretary Marshall had hardly left the Capitol before members of congress were hopefully hinting that Marshall had exaggerated his grave warnings to Taber, presumably in order to paint a picture clear enough even for the myopic eyes of the great economizer.

The contrast between these evidences of fatty complacency on Capitol Hill and the true state of affairs abroad is what makes Washington an uncomfortable place nowadays. While large numbers of members of congress visibly hanker to return to their native squalor of courthouse gang politics, the Soviet Union has now embarked on completely open political and economic warfare, and on a world scale. The Greek crisis is only one aspect of this much broader situation, of which the novel feature is the absolute lack of concealment of Soviet purposes.

Aimed At U. S.

Furthermore, the grand target of the Soviet attack is the United States, the land of the Browns and the home of the Tabers. This country's vital interest in the distant Greek crisis may at first seem difficult to grasp, but the reports from abroad of the Soviet methods of dealing with the Marshall plan should be sufficient to make Soviet purposes completely clear to all. The Soviet press, the Communist press in Europe, and the Soviet diplomats seeking to dissuade other nations from participation in the Paris meeting on the Marshall plan, have all frankly dealt with this country as the rival that must be pulled down. Three main points have been made.

First, in flowing tribute to the influence of the Browns and Tabers, they have warned all those interested in Secretary Marshall's offer that our congress will never provide funds for European reconstruction. The niggardliness of congress with foreign aid and its extreme conservatism are both being used as bogies to convince Europe that the Marshall plan will fail. Far better, say the Soviet Union's representatives and journalistic voices, to stick with the Soviets, who need western Europe's manufactured goods and can pay in food and raw materials.

Second, they have also said that if the Marshall plan works at all, it will become an engine of American economic imperialism in Europe.

And third, they have hinted with amazing frankness, in more than one European capitol, that America may be militarily strong today, but that in 10 years Soviet research will have mastered all the new weapons. At that time, it is suggested, non-cooperators will have dire reasons to regret their error.

Concessions Gained

At the same time, Secretary Marshall's bold initiative has forced the Soviets to make certain concessions, both in their own zone of Europe and elsewhere. One such was the last-minute promise to the British trade negotiators, personally dictated by Stalin, to supply Britain with a million tons of wheat in exchange for manufactured goods next year. Without this, the anti-American, pro-Soviet element of the British left would have had to shut up shop for good. Almost more significant were the earlier promises to deliver 40,000 tons of grain to Finland and 80,000 to relieve the dreadful starvation of Romania. These deliveries are to be immediate, despite the low level of rations in Russia.

And besides making concessions, the Soviets have also been forced to move into new and much more aggressive positions. This is the true meaning of the extraordinary Czechoslovak episode. The Communists now control the Czech government as the largest parliamentary party, but they have been losing ground for months with the electorate. The average Czech wishes to maintain relations with the West. Thus even the Communists in the cabinet of Premier Klement Gottwald at first did not object to sending an observer to the Paris meeting.

Then Gottwald was summoned to the Kremlin, and told off with ruthless brutality, probably at the very moment while his hapless foreign minister, the non-Communist Jan Masaryk, was informing an American journalist by telephone from Moscow that a Czech would still go to Paris. Gottwald relayed the orders to Prague by telephone, and the cabinet bowed before the necessity of a command from on high. But throughout Czechoslovakia as a whole, according to reliable dispatches, this evidence of absolute subservience has left a feeling of bitterness and humiliation unparalleled since the tragic time of Munich.

Interpretation

This can have only one meaning. If the Communists are to retain control of the government at the elections next year, they must use in Czechoslovakia the same tactics that put Hungary in their hands. An open attack on the relatively free Czech government will be aggression with a vengeance. But these are developments which must be expected, when all out political and economic warfare is being waged. In the long run, they will only be serious if complacency and ignorance prevent recognition of the political and economic warfare, and abort the obviously necessary counter-measures.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, July 22, 1937.

The bureau of commerce at Washington decided an electrostatic probably set off the explosion that destroyed the zeppelin Hindenberg on May 6 with a loss of 36 lives.

Fifteen counties were represented when a group of horse-breeders on their annual one-day tour visited the Charles A. Wentz & Son farm west of Upper Sandusky. Mr. Wentz exhibited his fine Belgian draft horses and gave a short talk on his work and history of his prize winners.

Seventy-five couples attended a dance given by Marion Chapter, Order of DeMolay, at Rainbow Gardens. Arrangements were in charge of Sylvester Lucas, chairman, Harold Denzer Jr. and Willard Durfey.

Marion county received its share of $1,566,436 in sales tax for the preceding month which the state auditor had been holding back for several days under a new state law which required counties to pay their debts to the state first.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, July 22, 1927.

A New York dispatch reported that official motion pictures of the Sharkey-Dempsey fight at Yankee Stadium Thursday night gave no evidence to support Sharkey's assertion that he had been fouled just preceding the knockout punch, by Dempsey.

County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens went to Traverse City, Mich. on a 10-day fishing trip.

Fred B. Crow of Chicago was the guest of his brother, French Crow.

Comer's Smokehouse, which for 30 years had been in operation on East Center street across from the courthouse and which was one of the most popular downtown assembly places for men, was closed on a suit in common pleas court on a $120 merchandise account and asking for appointment of a receiver.

Mrs. Raymond Dutt entertianed the Sorosis club at her home on Clover avenue with a kitchen shower complimenting Miss Lucille Iams, who was to be married the following month to Wallace C. Hill of Bucyrus.

BLACK EYE

Reports on Reports

By RAYMOND MOLEY

BY SEPTEMBER, the Truman briefcase will be bursting with reports on what we can spare for Europe.

To begin with, there will be the results of the summer toil of his three committees. First is the Krug committee on strategic and irreplaceable materials. Second is the Nourse council on the economic effects of our aid to Europe. Third is the Harriman group, whose purpose is to merge the Krug and Nourse findings. Each of these committees is, of course, working with a staff.

In addition to these fact-finders, a committee of the senate, under the leadership of Senator Taft, is delving into the subject and will produce plenty of printing. The senate foreign affairs and house foreign relations committees are not inactive. Recently, the house set up another group on foreign aid and how it can be carried domestically. There are also several studies under private auspices.

Plenty of Reading Matter

Masses of reading matter will come to Mr. Truman's desk from Europe. There will be reports from the various sub-committees created at the Paris conference. The international food emergency committee has just terminated its cereals conference. The food and agricultural organization is working on the same general subject. But this is not all.

There is also the economic and social council of the UN, which has a very active European branch under the Swedish Gunnar Myrdal. The British, American and French zone authorities are busy with reports. And there is the Ruhr coal committee. Undersecretary Clayton and Secretaries Harriman and Anderson will submit their first-hand impressions of Europe.

Europe cannot wait while Truman reads. Delay will multiply the cost of relief, which is immense already.

Neither the President nor the secretary of state are economic experts. Nor are they informed by business experience. Even if time permitted, they could not crystallize a plan from this mountain of advice and information. Nor should the job be farmed out, bureaucratic-style.

Greater Need Exists

There is need of arranging something more than a mere merger of the various plans. There must be accurate appraisal of how the publication of figures of need and of resources will affect all kinds of markets. To cite a single example, the cotton market is now marking time to determine to what extent American loans will move American cotton to Europe. It cannot compete at present costs with the product of other countries for the small amount Europe can afford.

The problem of interpreting the overwhelming mass of material and of shaping a firm and lasting policy requires the vision and intelligence of a master economist and statesman.

Herbert Hoover might do it, but he is now drawn into the task of governmental reorganization.

Bernard M. Baruch is the best answer. His contributions are so well known here and abroad that his conclusions would draw almost certain bi-partisan support. There is considerable smarting among Republicans over Truman's tax vetoes, and he needs help now in selling his program to congress. Baruch could help in that task, too.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

A new Argentine law taxes bachelors to aid newlyweds . . . Our congress goes home Saturday with practically nothing done along that line.

* * *

The tax amounts to 12 days' pay a year . . . The feeling is that every bachelor should know what marriage does to a pay envelope at least for that short period.

* * *

The UN plans to stay in session after congress quits . . . One can accomplish as much in session as the other on vacation.

* * *

Currently the UN is grappling with the Greek problem and considerable progress has been made . . . It is almost admitted that there is a Greek problem.

* * *

But the news from Russia is good . . . It is estimated that 30 million Russians are now riding bicycles, proving that the nation has come of age mechanically.

Daily Bible Thought

No one who expends his life in a noble cause loses it. We may invest our lives a day at a time or all in a moment, but unselfish devotion to what we believe to be right is not losing life, but saving it: "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the Gospel's shall save it."—Mark 8:35.

To A British Lady Who Cashed Some Rubber Checks.

DEAR LADY,

I am a little slow getting around to it but I want to say you have the right idea about checks, and I am sorry you got into a little trouble a few days back with the photographers and newsman making things so embarrassing. You say that it was all a mistake and that back in England if anybody makes a rubber check the bank makes good, raises no fuss whatever and merely drops the matter line calling attention to the fact there is no account. Well that is as it should be, in your case, me, and I don't like the attitude taken on checks in America. It is so easy to get into trouble passing them.

* * *

Look what happened to you. All you had to do to make out a few bad checks after buying some finery and did the bank take it graciously and handle the matter confidentially as it might? Why wasn't everything? Did it sit down and write you a very pleasant note saying would you please call over some day, when the weather was cooler, and put in a little something?

* * *

No indeed! Not even a post card! Not a postal call collect! The matter was treated as if it were a matter of a rubber check, with no more courtesy or politeness and understanding whatever than the cops came. The bank made trouble for you and a pretty kettle of fish, my dear!

* * *

Well, I don't know how to ease your feelings except to say that we are a young country and that our banks are impetuous. They fly off the handle a little when bad checks come in. They are not rubber-minded. I have known bank presidents to forget their manners over rubber checks came in. It seems to be in the blood.

* * *

It is a funny thing, but when an American bank president hears he has been taken with a rubber check he doesn't stop to think maybe this signer is a relative of a king. It seems to be the least he could do could be to check on this.

* * *

I get all worked up when a lady gets into difficulty like this and while it is none of my business I am going to take it up with all the banks on my list and urge that this bad check business be taken more calmly and that a touch of politeness be injected into all such matters. Of course on a check of $1,000 or over there could be a little curt but when the checks run only into the hundreds let's all be good natured and gracious, what?

* * *

Well, I am glad everything came out all right and I certainly hope for more courtesy from now on.

Sincerely,
ELMER.

HENRY FORD is at work on a car that will eliminate the gear shift. Lizzie, it is admitted, may have been right in the first place.

The government will drop all controls of egg prices this month. This may mean the abolition of the Bureau for Cackle Control, the Federal Hen Administration and the Government Agency For Establishing Proper Heights for Chicken Roosts.

Ben Pease says that if the ancient Sodomites could get a peek at present day civilization they would start singing "How are things in Sodom and Gomorrah?"

Congress is to make an inquiry into the high cost of living. This should raise it considerably.

DAMON RUNYON, peace to his soul, would thrill this day to the choice of that winning slogan "Arrest Cancer! It's Wanted For Murder." It has drama in the very ring of it. It tells the story and sounds the mood of this battle against a dread disease as no slogan ever has. Our belief is that it will be of terrific value in dramatizing the war on cancer and will be worth millions in contributions over the years to come. Walter Winchell, pal of Runyon, who took up this work in memory of the great sports writer, has done a terrific job.

Roughing It

By TRUMAN TWILL

Every summer about this time, 850,347 little boys get the idea it would be fun to sleep in the back yard. So they hound their mamas and papas until the poor women's ears are sagging. They finally is an agreement to turn over the whole thing to the papas when they come home from work.

The papas, remembering when they were little boys and wanted to sleep outside, give cheerful consent and proceed to needle their offspring with stories of roughing it, until by bedtime the little devils can hardly wait to start their great venture.

They get together enough equipment to keep them safe and sound through an arctic winter. Besides bedding, they take along several pounds of edibles for the inner man, who must not suffer. They equip themselves with flashlights, bug lotion, luminous timepieces, air guns, slingshots, goggles, aviators helmets and enough giving candy bars, in the event they are put under siege and have to make a last stand.

After 23 trips from their base of supplies, the remote outpost they are going to raid in the night, everything is ready. The lights in the neighborhood blink out, one by one, until finally the only illumination is a street light, casting grotesque shadows on the ground, and there is only one little boy left in the whole world, a lonely little guy lying on the ground.

Furtive wild animals watch him undress from the shrubbery. Venomous snakes slither noiselessly through the weaving, sighing grass of an impenetrable jungle. Thoughts of home and loved ones sleeping comfortably and safely in soft beds so far far away fill the outcast man's troubled mind.

Something is filling his stomach too, which is unpleasantly tense and uncomfortable and which may prove to be the first awful symptoms of malaria. There is a bug inside his shirt, perhaps a poisonous spider, maybe a tarantula or a middle distance, a wolf howls.

A pedestrian's even footsteps suddenly falter on the sidewalk and cease. An enemy, no doubt, sneaking up for a flank attack. Attention. Man the battle stations. Look sharp. What is that sinuous shape moving beyond the circle of light under the street lamp? What is that wriggling along the ground next to the garage? Somewhere far away, a clock strikes 11. Six more hours to go until daylight.

Nobody cares. Everybody has gone to bed, a white soft, clean place to lie down, no rocks, no insects, no enemies closing in, a place to linger in while waiting for breakfast at 7:30 . . . a haven of refuge where weary little boys can put down their heads and dream sweet dreams.

Whereupon 850,347 little boys get the idea it would be lots more fun to sleep in their beds instead. So they abandon everything but the flashlight and haul out of there, wasting no time, and are only a little bit surprised when the mamas and papas meet them at the back door relieved that the great adventure is over at last and everybody finally can get some sleep.

Russ Government Agents in U. S. Termed All Spies

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 22—Victor Kravchenko told congress today that "every responsible representative of the Soviet government in the United States may be regarded as an economical or political spy."

Kravchenko, former official of the Soviet purchasing commission in New York, testified before the house committee on un-American activities.

He said that a Mr. Sedov, who was deputy chairman of the purchasing commission, actually was superior to the Russian ambassador from the Communist party point of view.

Gromyko Was Envoy

Andrei Gromyko, now representing Russia in the United Nations, was ambassador at the time, Kravchenko said.

The one-time Russian army officer described Sedov as the "main personality representing the central committee on the Communist party in the United States."

He said no decisions could be made without Sedov's participation, adding that when secret conferences were held at the purchasing commission, Sedov presided rather than the general who was head of the agency.

Kravchenko later broke with the Russian government, renounced Communism and told why in a book, "I Chose Freedom."

Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator for the committee asked Kravchenko for information of actual assignments to spy work made by the Communist party in this country.

"Have Spy Assignments"

In general, the witness said, no person holding a position in connection with economic affairs arrives here from Russia "without a specific assignment with reference to collection of secret documents."

Then he went on to say that every responsible Soviet representative here may be regarded as a spy.

1947 Cars Have New Wrinkle, Says Reuther—Higher Price

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 22—Let's talk today about automobiles, high prices, security, and old-fashionedness of. Walter P. Reuther doing the talking, and saying a few things he may not have intended.

You understand now it is when senators start asking questions first thing you know you're hearing all on things that weren't even mentioned in your 10-page mimeographed statement. That's what happened to young Reuther—he's 36—the red-headed president of the United Automobile Workers union.

He slipped into a well-pressed and well-tailored grey suit (with pleated trousers) and dropped in on the senate small business committee to say that if the steel inquiry didn't stir its stumps and bring production up to 100,000,000 tons a year, it would plunge America into a swellacliegant depression.

Mentions Unemployed

He mentioned 115,000 Cadillac, Chevrolet, Buick, Pontiac and Oldsmobile workers walking the streets now in Flint and Detroit. Because the factories are fresh out of sheet steel. He said it was well and good for President Truman to ask for increased production, but you can't make motor cars of spearmint chewing gum.

Sen. Harry P. Cain of Washington reminded him that last week a steel maker had testified the automobile industry didn't need as much steel per car as it used to because it now makes bodies and fenders of light (and easily crumpled) metal.

"No sir," said Reuther. "Most automobile companies still are using their dies from the 1941 models and you can't change the gauge of the steel if you are going to keep on using those same dies."

You mean they are using the dies today they used in 1940 to make the '41 models?" Sen. Cain insisted.

They are, Reuther replied. This meant that few motor cars being produced today are different, aside from the Chromium knick-knacks, from the 41 motors which rolled off the line seven years ago.

Only Difference Is Price

About the only difference between the 1947 model and the 1941 job is a 30 per cent boost in price. Reuther had something to say about that, too. He said critics of labor charged union men with featherbedding, but they hadn't seen anything in that line until they examined the steel business.

"I read real high-priced featherbedding," he said. "Before the war the automobile industry used, mostly hot rolled steel."

This he explained, is a rough-looking, semi-finished product, which is perfect for most auto construction.

"Now, he said, "they're selling us mostly cold-rolled steel, which is smoother (and looks prettier in the roll), but which does no better job in an automobile. Only it costs an extra $14 a ton."

He charged that the automobile makers have been forced to buy 1,000,000 tons of cold-rolled steel they didn't want at a cost of $14,000,000. And who paid the $14,000,000? Why, he said, the fellow who put his name on the dealer's list for eventual delivery.

On the other hand, a Republican informant in Batavia said the Dutch were striking stiff resistance in their drives from Soerabaja and Bandjermasin.

A high Dutch official said that when the present objectives had been seized, perhaps within three or four days, the Dutch might halt their "local police action" since their mission then would have been fulfilled.

CENSOR SMOTHERS PRESS DISPATCH

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, Java, July 22 — The Netherlands army censor withheld in its entirety an Associated Press dispatch on Dutch military actions in Java which contained material obtained from a high-ranking Dutch officer.

The censor said he killed the story on instructions from general staff intelligence. He said no military information from Dutch sources would be transmitted which had not been included in official communiques of the army or The Netherlands East Indies government.

The Indonesian republic's radio Jogjakarta, previously an important source of news from the Republican side, was being jammed systematically, monitors reported. Republican radio Soerakarta still was being heard, however.

It was hauled to Bucyrus from Camp Perry by the Ohio Crane Co. and placed on a new foundation built by C. E. Shanks and Bucymate.

BABIES

for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Chief Switzer.

Changed Mind

Young Cline related that after putting the babies back in their cribs he started to turn back to his wheel chair near the elevator but then changed to a walk because he wasn't supposed to be in a hospital.

He declared he found babies and was going to the bed and the trouble.

In previous questioning Cline had said he'd seen a boy about 15 years old with a long white coat "pick up one of the babies and slam her against the floor."

Chief Switzer said the evidence, as he has it, would be turned over to the prosecutor's office as a matter of record.

The chief said no criminal action could be taken and that he never intended any such action in the event only a few deaths accidentally occurred the babies.

Hearings in Suit Against Hospital Open

By The Associated Press

MASSILLON, O., July 22—A court hearing on suits totaling $200,000 against certain employes and officials at Massillon City hospital opens today in connection with the violent deaths of two baby girls there June 6.

The parents of the infants—Mr. and Mrs. Leo Brand and Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Morton—charge the defendants conspired to conceal information and hamper a police investigation of the deaths.

Named in their petitions were E. J. Lahaie, superintendent of the hospital; Myrna Croft and Marian Silleck, nurses at the hospital; J. G. Lester, president of the hospital's board of trustees.

A fifth defendant is James Dooley, a writer who assisted Lahaie in preparing an announcement of the deaths.

"CREDIBLE," DETECTIVE SAYS OF MISHAP STORY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., July 22 — David L. Cowles, superintendent of the Cleveland police ballistics bureau, described Kenneth Cline's story as "credible" six-year-old Roger Gluck's statement concerning the Massillon baby deaths.

Cowles said he previously suggested to Massillon authorities that the boy be questioned in connection with the mysterious deaths June 6 in Massillon hospital.

Roger, who told Massillon Police Chief Stanley W. Switzer yesterday how he played with the babies and dropped them on the floor, was hospitalized at the time with his arm in a cast.

Supporting his contention Cowles pointed to knowledge that the boy had lifted down a 12½-pound radio from a high shelf while his arm was in a cast.

A tomato blight in 1946 which spread from Florida to Canada and inland to Indiana cost commercial tomato growers an estimated $30,000,000.

100 B-29's To 'Hit' Middle West Cities In Air Force Show

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, July 22—An armada of more than 100 B-29 superfortresses will sweep over Chicago, Detroit, and St. Louis in a mighty display of power for Air Force day, Aug. 1, the army air forces said today.

Two other mass movements of the big atom-bomb carriers will take place on the same day.

Eight B-29's will make a one-stop flight from Tokyo to Washington in what was billed as the "longest and fastest" mass flight of the superbombers ever attempted. They will arrive over Washington at noon, Aug. 1, and 30 B-29's are due back the same day from Germany where they went early this month on a training flight.

The mass flight over the midwestern cities, second of its kind since World War II, will be made for the twofold purpose of training air crews in split-second timing, and showing U. S. taxpayers the force which their dollars are supporting.

A similar B-29 mission "bombed" New York, Washington, Philadelphia and other eastern seaboard cities last April. That flight, too was planned by Gen. George C. Kenney, strategic air commander.

It ripped through a crowd of spectators watching from the railroad. Of the dead, three were spectators, five were civilian employes of the air ministry and nine were air force enlisted men and non-commissioned officers.

MEET TO HATCH OUT POULTRY PROBLEMS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 22—Problems affecting the poultry business, principally an embargo placed by Mexico, Latin American countries and Canada against baby chicks from the United States, will be "hatched out" by poultrymen members of the International Baby Chick association at the convention opening today.

Fair trade practices and research and transportation problems were covered yesterday in executive committee hearings.

"Mexico claims that United States chicks are disease-ridden are absurd," he said. "No nation maintains the standards set by our association. When it comes to chickens that can set on a nest day in and day out and produce eggs, we have them beat all ways."

Association President Nat Thompson of Petaluma, Calif. said most of the transportation troubles are traceable to the new shipping rates.

"We have organized a committee to gather data to prove the increased rates might cause sharp cuts in production, a matter, which in the light of the nation's present food supply situation, should be avoided," he said.

Thompson said progress in the research field would be disclosed during daily sessions. The convention closes Friday night.

"NO CAUSE FOR ACTION" RULED IN PRISON DEATH

Bellefontaine Prosecutor Spurns Case of Man Who Died In Jail.

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, July 22 — The Clark County Historical society was told by Atty. Gen. Hugh Jenkins yesterday that his office could do nothing about the death of the society's curator, Arthur R. Altick, 46, in the Logan county jail at Bellefontaine.

The society protested to Jenkins, the Logan county prosecutor, and the state highway patrol who arrested Altick on a charge of being intoxicated.

The society suggested that Altick may have died in his jail cell of a brain hemmorhage which resulted from a traffic accident. The society claimed that there was no indication that Altick was drunk before or immediately after his arrest.

Supt. George Mingle of the patrol said that Altick was pronounced intoxicated by a Bellefontaine physician immediately after his arrest.

Altick died in his jail cell the morning following his arrest.

Crawford Teacher Shortage Serious

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, July 22—A shortage of teachers for Crawford county's rural school system today was termed 'serious' by County Superintendent Milton Harman. Harman reports that there are six grade vacancies and four in the high schools and, in addition, two new superintendents are needed by virtue of resignations.

The superintendent said that it may be necessary to use mothers who were former teachers for the grade positions. Superintendents are needed at Leesville, where Russell Heft resigned, and at Chatfield, where Raymond Penn quit to become superintendent at Green Springs. There is but one vacancy in the city system. Superintendent D. C. Baer reported.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Distressing Condition

Nearly everyone has seen the "blisters" or swellings which appear on automobile tires whose side walls have become weakened. This is much like the outpouching which sometimes occurs in the human bowel causing the condition known as diverticulosis.

As a rule, such swellings, known as diverticula, occur in a group in some one portion of the bowel.

Usually, the opening into these sacs is quite small so that material from the bowel tends to be retained in them where, after a time, it may produce inflammation.

In most instances, the disorder occurs in those past forty years of age. It is especially likely to develop in older, heavier persons who lead an inactive life.

Certain complications may develop in this condition. For example if the diverticula become inflamed, then the disorder is known as diverticulitis. Abscesses may form around the diverticulum or the bowel may rupture. Blocking of the passage to the bowel may occur because of scar tissue formation.

In diverticulosis if no complications are present, there are usually such symptoms as constipation, indigestion, excessive gas in the bowel, and a recurring dull ache in the lower part of the abdomen with some tenderness of the same area.

If inflammation of the diverticulum should occur, there is a great deal of pain in the affected region, fever, loss of appetite, while the bowel movements contain bloodstained mucus.

Frequently, the symptoms are much like those of appendicitis. Unfortunately, there is no treatment available which will get rid of the diverticula other than operation. However, operation is by no means necessary in all cases but is primarily required when complications develop. Diagnosis of diverticulosis and of diverticulitis usually can be made by means of X-ray examination. If one of the diverticula should rupture, the patient becomes severely ill and immediate operation is usually necessary.

A patient with diverticulosis should eat a well-balanced diet which does not contain excessive amounts of bulky foods or highly seasoned foods. The habit of using laxatives should be avoided but stools should be kept soft.

Brown Brothers Want To Leave Dutch Uncle

By HAL BOYLE
(Associated Press Writer)

NEW YORK—The most exciting family scrap on the horizon is the effort of 70,000,000 little brown people to say goodbye to their old Dutch uncle.

The uncle has had a lot of trouble in the last three centuries keeping them under his empire roof, where they've always paid a big share of the rent.

Hal Boyle

The American policy in the Philippines is one reason Holland—the Dutch uncle—is confronted with its biggest crisis since it "adopted" the East Indies.

For, looking across the Pacific waters to their cousins in the Philippines, the 70,000,000 little brown men of the Indies were heartened in their own quest for independence by the action of Uncle Sam in promising and delivering full freedom to his nephew Filipinos.

This United States policy was little to the liking of European imperialists. Lord Louis Mountbatten, now viceroy to India, recognized its effect on subject peoples.

U. S. Started It All

At a reception in Singapore almost two years ago we were discussing the post-war surge of the brown people toward freedom. Lord Mountbatten turned to an American correspondent and said, smiling:

"Of course, you people started all this with your policy in the Philippines."

But there are other factors that helped put The Netherlands home government in Dutch with the inhabitants of its green and profitable Pacific paradise.

One was the growing power of the independence movement in India. Another was the loss of face the Dutch suffered when the Japanese army occupied the East Indies and indoctrinated the natives with its heady pie-in-the-sky prospect of the Greater East Asia Co-Prosperity sphere.

Turned Over Equipment

The Japs also trained the Indonesians in modern warfare and turned over much of their own equipment on Java to them after the end of the war.

With this dubious rusted armament the 200,000-man Indonesian army thus now faces a Dutch army of 120,000 men well-equipped with British and American tanks, guns and planes.

But if full scale war develops, the Indonesians by guerrilla attacks and wanton destruction of Dutch productive property may make reconquest of the East Indies too expensive for The Hague's Slim pocketbook.

The native leaders are well aware that post-war Holland—only 12,712 miles in area with a population of slightly over 9,000,000—is in no financial position to wage a long fight against 70,000,000 subjects occupying a territory of 790,000 square miles half a world away.

They know that, historically, Great Britain faced a roughly similar problem with India and bowed to the situation despite the clamor of her more ardent imperialists.

Javanese Good Warriors

Most Javanese are Moslems and traditionally good warriors. They led many savage revolts against their white masters until the Dutch government instituted moderate reforms that finally won it the reputation of being the most enlightened of colonial powers.

In 1825 a hero of Java, Dipa Negara, began a bloody rebellion that lasted five years and cost the Dutch heavily in men and money. It was so expensive that Holland had to turn to a private citizen—Baron Van Den Bosch—for funds to save the colony, and named him governor general.

In this period Java had only 5,000,000 population to 2,000,000 in Holland. But in 12 years some $650,000,000 was wrung from the colony.

Today Republican leaders demand full freedom for the 70,000,000 people in the rubber, oil, rice, and copra-rich East Indies, Holland's empire plum. They think they are at last in a position to get it.

Why People Prefer Annie Laurie's Candies

WHY DO YOU PREFER ANNIE LAURIE'S CANDIES?

MOTHER: Well . . . for goodness sake her candy is best for my son because every ounce is packed full of nutritious food. I like the rich "homade" flavor and freshness.

FATHER: Annie Laurie's candies is a perfect tasteful gift. A box of succulent, delicious and creamy-rich chocolates makes a hit with everybody.

SON: Annie Laurie's candies are absolutely pure. Every ingredient is carefully tested and the result is a delicious wholesomeness in which they take pride. I eat only their pure candy that will give me added energy for play.

DAUGHTER: Candy is important in every romance and mine. Therefore it's Annie Laurie's; there's important romance in every piece of assorted chocolates. Only the best should be given and the best is Annie Laurie's.

WHY DO YOU PREFER ANNIE LAURIE'S CANDIES?

SUCCESSFUL HOSTESS: People admire me for being a distinctive hostess, but the secret of my success at bridge parties is a box of Annie Laurie's Candies always on hand to serve. So many ladies do not care one way or the other what kind of candy they serve. Hard candies have ruined many social careers. But I'm particular and I serve only the right kind of candy . . . the best, the right kind is Annie Laurie's Chocolates which insure the success of my parties that so many people admire. The price of ANNIE LAURIE'S CANDIES is so low . . . an inexpensive but excellent treat for each guest.

ANNIE LAURIE'S CANDIES TO GIVE AND TO EAT—

In addition to Annie Laurie Candy being a tasteful gift—one of the most delicious confections ever made—every ounce has nutritive value. So, she is getting two benefits:—first, a delicious confection, and second, a highly concentrated food. We always maintain the same careful supervision of our quality and our prices are low.

House Passes Measure To Ease Excise Taxes

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 22—The house passed unanimously and sent to the senate today a bill exempting from the 20 per cent excise tax on jewelry any article of jewelry selling for less than $25.

On motion of Rep. Forand (R-RI), the jewelry purchase exemption was written into a bill excluding from excise levies musical instruments sold for the use of religious and non-profit education institutions.

The measure also reduces from 15 per cent to 10 per cent the excise applicable to cameras and unexposed amateur roll films. It removes the tax of 25 per cent on photographic lenses, apparatus and equipment used in taking, developing, print or enlarging still or motion pictures.

It is not yet certain whether the senate, in the rush for adjournment by the weekend, will act on the legislation.

Marion Youth Wins High Contest Rating

Marvin Evans Jr., 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Evans of 402 Olney avenue was awarded third place in the Ohio senior division of the model car design contest sponsored annually by Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild, according to an Associated Press report from Detroit.

The wooden model entered by Marvin was a streamlined rear-engine model of a four-door sedan. This year's entry was the second and final trial for the Marion youth since the age limit for the senior competition is 19 years.

The model took approximately six months to complete and was built at the Davis and Jones Pattern Works on Lincoln avenue where Marvin is employed as a pattern makers' apprentice. The model, which was entered on June 15 in the contest, measures 15¾ inches in length, 6¼ inches wide and 5 inches high.

Marvin was graduated from Harding High school in 1945 and has been employed at the pattern works for approximately 18 months.

Winner for the regional award and other winners are also listed in the following Associated Press report.

James Marial of Canton topped all entrants from Ohio by capturing the junior division's regional award in the model cars design competition. His sleek model, which won first place in the state juniors and a $100 cash award, also won over junior models from Michigan, Indiana Illinois, Wisconsin and Ohio.

As a regional award winner young Marial will receive an expense-free trip to the National Craftsman' guild convention at Detroit Aug. 19-22 to compete for university scholarships valued from $2,000 to $5,000.

James N. Henry of Columbus took first place senior division honors for the state in the model car competition.

EARL N. HALE SPEAKS AT LIONS MEETING

Discusses Career of President John Quincy Adams.

Earl N. Hale, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., guest speaker at the luncheon-meeting of the Lions club held Monday at Hotel Harding, chose as his topic a discussion on highlights in the life of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States.

The advice which Mr. Adams gave his son, that is to have "a stout heart, a clear conscience and never despair" was the basic secret of his own great life, Mr. Hale said. He described the President's hobbies, his religious training and gave a number of incidents from his long and famous political career. Mr. Hale pointed out the political accomplishments and also told a number of humorous and practical experiences of Mr. Adams.

A report on the recent soapbox derby and constructive advice on plans for the one next year was given by Dr. Daniel Murphy, general chairman for the event. Members gave a vote of thanks to Jack Hanley, track manager for the race and instigator of the event. Robert Axe, concession chairman, reported on the proceeds received from the event.

Plans were made to attend the annual Ladness picnic to be held Aug. 10 at Garfield park. Announcement was also made that Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gabler would leave Tuesday to attend the Lion's National convention at San Francisco, Calif.

List Ordnance Area In Conservation Bill

By The United Press

COLUMBUS, July 22—State conservation officials here said today that Ohio will not be greatly affected by the bill to make surplus land and water areas owned by the federal government available.

Dr. E. D. Martin, head of the game management division of the state conservation division, pointed out that of the available areas owned by the federal government in the state, much is being sought by farmers as best suited for agricultural purposes.

Among the areas which might be affected if the bill were to become law are the Plumbrook ordnance area near Sandusky in Erie county; The Scioto Ordnance area in Marion county; and parts of land around Wright and Patterson fields near Dayton.

Jitts Lawrence went all the way for the Cubs and scattered 11 Muncie hits over seven innings.

Bob Mello walked to start the Muncie ninth and went to second on Spike Foster's sacrifice but Bobzean grabbed Bob Montag's liner and ran to second to double off Mello and wind up the game.

Joe Nuxhall, Muncie fireball ace, will face the Cubs in the game tonight.

ROBINSON DENIES HE RAN OUT ON DOYLE FAMILY BENEFIT TILT

Will Fight, But Under Different Promoter, Champion Says.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 22 — Welterweight Champion Ray Robinson's manager says the Sugar Man will go through with a benefit fight in Los Angeles in November for the family of the late Jimmy Doyle but it will not be under Promoter Babe McCoy's sponsorship.

Doyle died after Robinson knocked him out in Cleveland on June 24 and Robinson soon afterward announced his intention to fight a benefit. It was learned the idea was suggested to him by Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

However, McCoy, the Los Angeles promoter, announced here yesterday that the bout had been called off and said "it looks to me like he's definitely running out of the bout." McCoy had scheduled Robinson with California Jackie Wilson for Sept. 23 at Los Angeles.

Apprised of McCoy's statement Robinson announced through his business manager, Pete Vaccaro, that he would make the benefit appearance but under the promotion of Larry Rummans instead of McCoy. Vaccaro said Robinson wanted to delay the Doyle benefit because he may "get a big money shot" in a fight with Marcel Cerdan, the European middleweight champion, later this summer.

Card-Bum Down-To-Wire Finish in Prospect Again

Baseball fans are hereby given fair warning to be prepared for another hectic down-to-the-wire finish in the National league pennant race with the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals once again assuming the leading roles.

Despite the Brooks' handsome four-game bulge—six and a half over the fourth-place Redbirds—the Cardinals are not as bad off as first glance would seem to imply. The schedule is heavily in their favor.

Of the four chief contenders—Brooklyn, New York, Boston and St. Louis—the Cards have the most games left to play at home—38. The Giants have 30, the Braves 28 and the Dodgers have the least number of all, 26.

Bums Tough at Home

Of 51 games played in the friendly confines of Ebbets' field, the Dodgers have won 36, lost 15 for a remarkable .706 percentage, fully 110 points above their season's overall record. No wonder the Dodger entourage, heading west today for the start of an 18-game road trip, was humming the familiar tune of "there's no place like home."

In comparison, the Cards show a .615 home record with 24 won and 15 lost. The Braves have a 30-19 won and lost mark for .612 and the Giants boast a .596 figure for 28 wins and 19 losses.

The Dodgers staged a temporary farewell party at Ebbets' field yesterday by knocking off the Cincinnati Reds in both ends of a doubleheader, 7-4, and 4-3. Catcher Bruce Edwards was the big gun for the Brooks, driving in four runs in the opening victory and knocking in the winning run in the nightcap with a ninth inning single.

Come From Behind

The Dodgers were forced to come from behind in each game, much to the delight of 35,092 cash customers making up the largest home attendance of the season.

Pete Reiser, the hard-luck champion, bruised his left shoulder when he fell fielding Young's inside-the-park home in the first game, and was forced to retire. He is expected to be out three or four days.

Babe Young got the Reds off to an early 4-2 lead in the opener with a two-run, inside the park homer, but Brooklyn tied the count in the sixth, knocking starter Bucky Walters from the mound and continuing the assault against Harry Gumbert in the next round.

Trailing 3-1 in the second game, the Dodgers pulled into a tie on homers by Carl Furillo and Dixie Walker.

Phillies Whip Pirates

In the only other game played in the major yesterday, the Phillies whipped the Pirates in Pittsburgh in a night game 8-1 to stay out of the National league cellar. The Phils hopped on Roger Wolff, the refugee nuckleballer from the American league, for six runs in the first inning to make Dutch Leonard's 11th win his easiest of the year. Dutch, also a knuckleball artist, is also a former American leaguer. Both played for the Washington Senators.

No other teams were scheduled, although the New York Yankees met the Boston Braves in the annual Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., with the Braves eking out a 4-3 decision in 10 innings.

Before the game 15 newcomers were officially welcomed into baseball's Hall of Fame. They were Ed Walsh, Rube Waddell, Joe Tinker, Johnny Evers, Frank Chance, Eddie Plank, Tom McCarthy, Jesse Burkett, Jack Chesbro, Iron Man Joe McGinnity, Clark Griffith, Carl Hubbell, Frank Frisch, Lefty Bob Grove and Mickey Cochrane.

Northwestern Halfback Transfers to Ohio State

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, July 22 — Bill Hunt Jr., outstanding halfback with Northwestern university for the last two seasons, said today he would enroll at Ohio State university this fall.

Hunt, who earned the varsity "N" at Northwestern both seasons as one of Coach Lynn Waldorf's speedy wingbacks, is the son of the one-time Buckeye great, Bill Hunt Sr.

Hunt has two more years of college eligibility, but will not be eligible to play this season because of the Western conference regulations on transfer students.

Quick Senate Approval Of Western Fund Seen

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 22—Quick senate approval of a compromise interior department appropriations bill allowing $89,528,038 of new funds for western reclamation projects is expected.

The house accepted the conference report yesterday with only a few voices raised in dissent.

In its final form, the bill provides $194,587,859 of new money for the operation of all programs of the interior department during the 12 months ending next June 30. That is $101,500,000, or 34.3 per cent, less than the budget estimate, but $33,174,000 more than originally voted by the house.

SMITTY'S ALL-STARS WIN 6-3 STRUGGLE FROM NEVADA TEAM

Lewis Strikes 13 Out as Locals Triumph; 2 Games Tonight.

With Guy Lewis sending 13 batters down strike-out alley, Smitty's All-Stars defeated Nevada Firemen 6-3 at Crystal Lake park last night.

At the plate it was Roseberry who starred for the Stars with a home run and a single.

A doubleheader had been billed, but the third team, Sycamore, failed to show, so the All-Stars and Nevada played nine innings.

Tonight Crystal Lake park will again be the scene of activity as Night league teams take over. First game starting at 8 will put Smitty's against Shanty Town Bar and the second will be a Marion Engineer Depot - Huber engagement.

Kiwanis, Rotary To Duel on Links

On the eve of their annual golf tourney, both Rotarians and Kiwanians are confident of victory. Spokesmen for both clubs have proclaimed that their club's name will go on the rotating cup this year, but declined to boast more freely than this until it's all-over tomorrow.

Rotary won last year.

The tournament will be staged at the Country club tomorrow starting at 1 p. m. About 50 divot diggers are expected to be on hand. All are requested to be at the club by 12:30 so that pairings can be made.

Kiwanis is in charge of the golfing program and John Dowler is program chairman. A dinner and program, presented by Kiwanis, will follow the matches.

Columbus Golfers Agog Over Impending Meet

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, O., July 22 — Now that Ohio has disposed of the Toledo Inverness four-ball matches, and the state women's and amateur golf events in the last two weeks, the Buckeye links spotlight swings this weekend to Columbus Country club where the Capital City offers its second annual open classic — a $10,000 affair.

Practically every one who ever won anything, or threatened to win it, will be on hand, with the exception of Lord Byron Nelson, the 1946 victor who has deserted the touring troupe in favor of his Texas ranch and his umbrella sales job.

With the 72-hole medal chase set for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Columbus folk are all agog over the impending visit of such headliners as Arthur D'Arcy (Bobby) Locke, champion of South Africa and Canada; PGA King James Bennett Elliott (Jim) Ferrier, the former Australian; National Open Champ Lew Worsham of Pittsburgh; roly-poly Ed Oliver, the clown of the links brigade; little Ben Hogan, the long-belter, and Jimmy Demaret, the Beau Brummel and wise-cracking maestro.

Locke Stays On

Locke came to this country to play a couple of tournaments, but stayed to win six of 11 and become the leading money winner of the year. The rest of the professional's had dubbed him the "man who came to dinner" because he's eating all his meals here now, and also is eating up quite a batch of the funds the home-breds had counted on as their own.

The Columbusites are planning to throng the course to see the mechanics of the swing used by such boys as Sam Snead and the other perfectionists — possibly with the idea of adapting same to their own game.

Probably, too, there will be quite a bit of envy shown by the sand trap and rough brotherhood of duffers as they see the hot-shots tear the course apart and bury old man par.

Die Thousand Deaths

But such guys shouldn't be envied, for they die a thousand deaths when a short putt rails to drop — and they do miss 'em—or when a pitch-and-run shot takes a bad hop and skitters away from the hole. Every shot lost means money lost, and these guys love their nickels. In no other game is the pressure on every move so great as in golf.

As to trying to copy the swings, etc., of these greats, there is nothing more futile or impossible. The only way to learn golf is to have your home professional show you the tricks.

Back in 1926, when Bobby Jones won the National Open at Scioto, here in Columbus, we tried to copy that sweet swing of his. Successively, if not successfully, as the years rolled by, we swung over to such guys as Ralph Guldahl, Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, Demaret — and right now we are intrigued no end by the little "dip" that Jim Ferrier gets into his swing.

We've tried them all, and the result is that guys now send prepaid taxicabs for us to come out and play 'em for money.

So we say "don't envy those professionals — and don't try to copy them." It would be much more logical for them to watch us duffers for a while and get a little fun out of the game.

Council All-Civilian

The council will be all-civilian The President may sit in. The members are, secretaries of state national defense, army, navy, air force, and the chairman of the national resources board

Central intelligence agency—to gather information on the military strength of other nations and what they're up to.

This information is to be gathered from all sources everywhere, abroad and here. The director is to be appointed by the President.

War council—to advise the secretary of national defense on problems of the armed forces to get better team-work out of them.

The chairman will be the secretary of national defense Other members secretaries of the army navy, air force and chiefs of staff of the three services.

Research and development board—to suggest the best ways of getting scientific research done for the armed forces with the least lost motion.

Check on Industries

The President will appoint a civilian chairman. Other members two representatives each from the army, navy and air force

Munitions board—to keep constant check on this country's industrial capacity for waging war Example, how many plants can make tanks.

The President will appoint a civilian chairman. Other members: undersecretaries of the army, navy and air force.

Joint chiefs of staff—to plan military operations, help combine the education and training of men in the three services, and act as military advisors to the President

Members: chief of staff of the army (Gen Eisenhower is army chief of staff now), chief of naval operations (now Adm Chester W Nimitz), chief of staff of the air force.

In voting for this national defense plan, house and senate passed separate bills which were the same except on these points

The house wanted the director of central intelligence to be a civilian, not a military man and it wanted the Marine Corps to be assured it would remain intact The senate said the director could be either a civilian or military man, and it left out the marine provision.

House and senate must iron out this difference before they send a single, agreed-upon bill to the President to be signed into law

They're expected to do it at this week but—until they do, this plan is not law If they don't agree, the whole plan is dead this year

Bucyrus Junior C. of C. Presses War on Flies

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, July 21—Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce here are keeping an anxious eye on the fly situation and among them there are those who are satisfied that Bucyrus is going to be a flyless city through the remainder of the summer.

So far few flies are in evidence and the Jaycees are certain there will be none.

The reason: The Jaycees have been spraying parts of the city with DDT, particularly the downtown district.

One Jaycee has so much faith in the experiment that he has taken the screen door off of his business establishment, but some others are awaiting August—the fly month—before deciding that the pests have been eliminated for the year.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

MARY turned a horrified face on her uncle at his suggestion.

"Carry me back to bed!" she ejaculated. "Me, when I've just had the world all tied up in a pink ribbon handed to me on a solid silver platter—no, it's pure platinum!"

"I'll tell you what you may do, though," she rattled on, and we all saw, I think, that she was fairly "fey," as the Scotch put it, in her joy and relief at the word from her Aunt Harriet that had lifted the awful fear which had been haunting her.

"You may lift me in your strong arms and waltz me around again, Willie, around and around, around, until I swoon from sheer ecstasy! I'd try a few dance steps myself, but I know that Dr. Twitchell and Aunt Katharine would have litters of kittens if I even mentioned such a thing!"

Dr. Twitchell laughed delightedly, and Katharine smiled indulgently at her patient, but I saw that she was quietly holding Mary, so that she could not spring to her feet.

"Mary!" she said authoritatively. "Listen to me attentively for a few seconds."

Mary shot a keen glance up at her.

"Okay," she said resignedly. "My ears are yours. But please make the sermon short."

Not a Sermon

"It isn't a sermon," Katharine said, with a tartness which I guessed was intentional. "It's a bit of commonsense, and if you had the sense with which the Creator is supposed to have endowed a rabbit—probably the most footless of all creatures you'd know this for yourself instead of waiting for me to beat it into you. Because that's what I'm going to do."

There was something so compelling in Katharine's voice that I was not surprised to see Mary giving her strict—if a bit resentful—attention. But I saw Dr. Twitchell look at his nurse approvingly, and guessed that he had given her a private signal to straighten out the difficult situation.

"You're so nearly well," Katharine went on, "that if you use your brains you soon—and by 'soon' I mean in a few days—can resume your daily routine just where you left it off a year ago. I think Dr. Twitchell will bear me out in this." She looked at the old physician, and he nodded.

"That is a correct assumption," he said in his pompous manner, and I guessed that Katharine was concealing a smile with difficulty as she turned back to Mary.

Depends On Herself

"Now," she said, "it depends on you whether you're going to take the blessings the good Lord has given you or whether you're going to upset your own apple cart by being stubborn over a few minor things.

"You know, better than any one," she went on, "how near you were to going off the deep end. That danger is over now, with the removal of the awful fear which has been haunting you: There is no chance now of your having a nervous breakdown. But you have been weakened physically by the tremendous strain under which you have been laboring, and you need a little time to get yourself back to normalcy."

"Don't quote Warren Gamelial at me!" Mary quipped with a giggle, and I knew that Katharine's battle was virtually won, although there would be rebellious moments. "That's something I simply can't stand," she rattled on, and Katharine grinned at her.

"I won't do it again," she promised, "but I want you to be a good girl now, and let your uncle Dicky carry you back to bed."

A Question from Mary

"How long will I have to stay there?" Mary hedged.

"Perhaps not as long as you fear," Katharine said, smiling. "If you rest a few minutes in bed, and Dr. Twitchell says pulse and temperature are all right, I might be persuaded to let you sit up for breakfast, and also grant you a wish. How about it?"

"Any wish I want?" Mary asked craftily.

"Provided it doesn't involve any physical exercise," Katharine said.

"Then," Mary said, while I shut my eyes and sent up a fervent petition that her wish would be the one she ought to voice, "I wish to have breakfast with my darling husband."

To Get Degree From Former Superintendent

When Charles Smith of Marion graduates from Kent State university in August, he will receive his bachelor of science degree from his one-time superintendent of schools, university President George A. Bowman.

Smith entered elementary school in Marion in 1929 when Dr. Bowman was superintendent here. The K.S.U. student can remember, while he was in the second grade, of a visit to the classroom by Dr. Bowman.

Smith enrolled at K.S.U. in 1941. His college career was interrupted in 1942, when he entered the Army. While in service, he attended Boston college and later saw action with the 26th Infantry division in the E.T.O.

He will join the Eric railroad traffic department upon graduation. Smith is married and has a daughter.
